The Department of Arts and Sports Sciences at TU Dortmund University is offering the following position (starting at the earliest possible date):

Professorship (W3) Historical Musicology

Our profile
TU Dortmund University comprises 17 departments in the natural and engineering sciences as well as the humanities and social sciences and is a dynamic university with a strong profile in research, teaching, promotion of young scientists and transfer.

The Institute of Music and Musicology at the Department of Arts and Sport Sciences is one of the largest locations for music teacher training for all music teaching professions in one of the densest and most diverse music landscapes in Europe. In addition, the Institute offers the Bachelor’s/Master’s degree program in Music Journalism in cooperation with the Institute of Journalism and is involved in the interdisciplinary degree program in Cultural Analysis and Cultural Intermediation.

Profile of the professorship
You represent the area of historical musicology in research and further develop it with international visibility. In doing so, you participate in research networks and cooperations within and outside TU Dortmund University and are committed to promoting early career researchers. In teaching, you are responsible for the subject historical musicology in its full range and participate appropriately in the teaching activities of the department, notably in the degree programs of Teacher Training for Music, Music Journalism and the Master Cultural Analysis and Mediation.

Your qualifications
You have obtained a doctorate with above-average success and have acquired a post-doctoral lecture qualification (Habilitation) or an equivalent qualification. You have demonstrated your research excellence in the field covered by the professorship through relevant publications in internationally recognized peer-reviewed venues. Experience in applying for competitively awarded third-party funding is expected. It is desirable for research and teaching to take into account cultural studies perspectives and a musical diversity that goes beyond the field of Western European Classical Music. Additionally, you have the potential for teaching excellence and you are willing to teach in German language and terminology in the medium term. Social and leadership skills and the willingness to participate in academic self-administration will complete your profile. Moreover, the recruitment requirements in Sections 36 and 37 of the North Rhine-Westphalia Higher Education Act (Gesetz über die Hochschulen des Landes Nordrhein-Westfalen, HG NRW) apply.

Attractive environment
We offer an excellent academic environment and attractive cooperation opportunities with renowned international, national, and regional partners. The metropolitan Ruhr Area with the University Alliance Ruhr (UA Ruhr) guarantees short distances to a diversity of partners from science and industry. With our Dual Career Service, we support your partner in finding professional opportunities in the region, if desired. We will be happy to provide information about housing and living in Dortmund and help you find childcare options. If you are coming to us from abroad, our Welcome Service will support you upon your arrival in Germany.

Diversity welcome
A central goal of TU Dortmund University is to promote diversity and equal opportunities. We strive to significantly increase the percentage of women in research and teaching and therefore welcome applications from female academics. We give preference to severely disabled applicants if their qualifications meet the requirements. We support the compatibility of family and career and promote gender equality in academia and research.
