With 6,500 employees in research, teaching and administration and its unique profile, TU Dortmund University shapes prospects for the future. The interaction between engineering and natural science as well as social and cultural studies drives both technological innovations and progress in knowledge and methodology. It is not only the roughly 33,400 students who benefit from this.

The Faculty of Business and Economics at TU Dortmund University is seeking to fill the position of a commencing as soon as possible. The successful candidate is expected to represent the field of "Economics" in research and teaching.

TU Dortmund is seeking a candidate with an outstanding doctorate (Ph.D.) and with publications in internationally highly visible peer-reviewed journals or a job market paper with prospects of publication in leading international journals in the field of microeconomics, macroeconomics, finance, economic policy, regional economics or econometrics. Content-related and methodological compatibility with the research interests of the faculty is expected.

Applicants should contribute to collaborative research projects within and outside TU Dortmund University. Willingness to raise third-party funds is required.

An appropriate contribution to the faculty's curriculum in English and in the medium term in German is expected.

The successful candidate will possess social and leadership skills and be willing to participate in academic self-governance.

The recruitment requirements are based on § 36 HG NRW (law governing universities in NRW). The appointment is initially for three years as a temporary civil servant. In the course of the third year, this status will be reviewed and may be extended for a further three years depending on performance.

TU Dortmund University strives to increase the number of women in academic research and therefore strongly encourages women to apply.

TU Dortmund University is an equal opportunity employer and gives preference to candidates with disabilities if equally qualified.

TU Dortmund University supports the compatibility of work and family life and promotes gender equality in the university community.
