

With 6,500 employees in research, teaching and administration and its unique profile, TU Dortmund University shapes prospects for the future: the interaction between engineering and natural sciences as well as social and cultural studies drives both technological innovations and progress in knowledge and methodology. It is not only the roughly 33,400 students who benefit from this.

The Faculty of Business and Economics at TU Dortmund University is seeking to fill the position of a commencing as soon as possible.

TU Dortmund University is seeking an outstanding individual and excellent researcher in the field of international economic relations with relevant publications in leading international venues with peer review.

Possible fields of specialization may include international trade, innovation and international production structures, outsourcing, globalization and international capital flows, global imbalances, international finance, or trade policy.

Applicants will contribute to collaborative research projects within and outside TU Dortmund University (such as collaborative projects planned with the University Alliance Ruhr).

International collaborations and experience in raising third-party funds are expected.

An appropriate contribution to the faculty's curriculum in business and economics and the willingness to teach in English and in the medium-term also in German are expected.

The successful candidate will possess social and leadership skills and be willing to be involved in academic self-governance.

Preconditions for employment are specified in § 36 and § 37 HG NRW (law governing universities in North-Rhine Westphalia).

TU Dortmund University strives to increase the number of women in academic research and teaching and therefore explicitly encourages women to apply.

TU Dortmund University is an equal opportunity employer and gives preference to candidates with disabilities if equally qualified.

TU Dortmund University supports the compatibility of work and family life and promotes gender equality in science.

Please send your application, including the usual documents (CV, list of publications, the three most important papers relevant to the field of international economics, certificates etc.), in one pdf-file to the following address by 26.05.2021
